About the University

Edge Hill University is an ambitious institution, based on an attractive, award-winning 160-acre campus in Lancashire, close to Liverpool and Manchester. The University aspires to combine excellent research of reach and significance with a world-class student experience.

Edge Hill University is ranked as Gold in the Teaching Excellence Framework (TEF), the government's evaluation of excellence in teaching quality, learning environment and student outcomes. The University also appears in the Times Higher Global Rankings (801-1000).

Edge Hill University was named Modern University of the Year in the Times and Sunday Times Good University Guide 2022 and shortlisted for the overall UK University of the Year award. With this award the University was called 'one of the shining stars of the modern university sector'. The award has come closely after Edge Hill was awarded University of the Year in the Educate North Awards 2020/21. The University has previously held the coveted UK University of the Year title, awarded by Times Higher Education in 2014/2015.

Other recent successes include a Global Teaching Excellence Spotlight Award (2018) from Advance HE in association with Times Higher Education, being ranked in the top 10 for teaching by the Times/Sunday Times Good University Guide 2017, top in the North West for student experience (Time Higher Education 2017), and top in the UK for student accommodation in the 2017 WhatUni Awards.

Edge Hill University has achieved both Athena Swan Bronze and the European Commission's 'HR Excellence in Research Award' (first awarded 2018 and reawarded 2021), which acknowledges alignment with the principles of the European Charter for Researchers and Code of Conduct for researcher recruitment. The process incorporates both the QAA Code of Practice for Research Degree Programmes and the Concordat to Support the Career Development of Researchers.

About the Faculty

The Faculty of Health, Social Care and Medicine (FHSCM) is made up of three schools: the School of Nursing, Midwifery & Allied Health (NMAH), the school of Applied Health & Social Care and Social Work (AHS&SW), and the Medical School.

Edge Hill University Medical School (EHUMS), which sits within the Faculty of Health, Social Care and Medicine, is one of only five new medical schools in England, established after a rigorous competitive bidding process as part of the government's expansion of undergraduate medical training places; EHUMS was the only new undergraduate medical school funded in North West England.

The Medical School has an undergraduate department including pre-registration programmes - MBChB (5 years), MBChB with Foundation Year (6 years) and a Masters in Physician Associate Studies. There are also longstanding post-graduate programmes.

The physician associate is one of the new roles within the NHS. It is an exciting time for the course as Physician Associates move towards regulation by the GMC. The new undergraduate medical curriculum with its focus on widening access to medicine (circa 50% of the year), interprofessional, team-based learning and a strong emphasis on community and primary care offers a new approach to undergraduate medical education designed to better equip doctors for the demands of 21st century health care and to meet the needs of the local NHS. EHUMS Medical School is a rapidly growing department with an evolving staff body, many of whom are clinically and/or research active. Developing its research profile is a key focus for the School.

Reward:

We want you to feel happy when you come to work and proud when you go home. From the moment you join us you have the opportunity to enhance your skills. We offer a range of specialist development sessions and academic development opportunities along with an award winning and comprehensive staff health & wellbeing programme (HR Excellence Awards 2017). This means you will receive a full academic induction, be enrolled if appropriate on our PGCTHE, benefit from the Edge Hill University CPD scheme (UKPSF) and our annual University Learning and Teaching day all to support your professional development.

This is just a taste of what we are able to offer you at Edge Hill University.

About You

You will be an enthusiastic and friendly professional with excellent communication and interpersonal skills coupled with a commitment to providing an excellent student experience. Health professionals should hold current registration with a healthcare professional body. You should have a relevant background and experience of teaching in areas appropriate to medical/physician-associate/health professions programmes. You should have an established or promising research profile.

To be successful you will further enrich our student's experience through your expertise and subject knowledge as evidenced through your qualifications and professional experience. In return, you will join a forward thinking and dynamic team that pushes the boundaries of curriculum development within the new Medical School.

About the Job

The post is to support the expansion and development of the Edge Hill University Medical School at an exciting time in its evolution.

You will be required to make a significant contribution to the delivery of our MBChB, MBChB with Foundation year and the MSc Physician Associate Studies, contributing to the delivery and assessment of our areas of our core curricula depending on your areas of expertise and experience. We would particularly welcome candidates who could teach one or more of one or more of the following areas: applied clinical knowledge, clinical ethics, clinical professionalism, clinical communication, social sciences as related to the practice of medicine and/or areas of clinical practice. Previous experience of teaching and assessment of undergraduate medical students and/or postgraduate Physicians Associates students would be an advantage. Health professionals should have current registration with a health professional body.

You will be expected to contribute to the research profile of the department through the activities of one of our Research Units, and to meet the qualitative and quantitative requirements for submission to the next Research Excellence Framework.

An enhanced DBS will be required for this role.
