About the Faculty

The Faculty of Arts & Sciences has an active research community involving academic staff, post-doctoral researchers, funded PhD students and national and international research projects. You can explore it further at <https://research.edgehill.ac.uk/>. It houses teaching and research across diverse STEM subjects including environment science, geography, geology, biological sciences, biomedical sciences, computing, sport science and engineering.

About the Department

The Department of Biology, in which this post will initially be located, has 21 academic staff, and nurtures the early career research of over 40 MRes, PhD, research assistants and postdoctoral fellows. The department has a vibrant and active research community and current research clusters explore regulation of cell signalling in cancer, endocrine hormone expression, insect and microbial vectors of disease, rare skin diseases, blood brain barrier models, pregnancy complications, age-related conditions, wound healing, gene therapies, conservation, plant science and soil dynamics. The department also delivers excellent teaching to over 600 undergraduate and MSc students. Indeed, the Biology department achieved 20th position nationally (of 87 providers) in the Guardian Good University Guide 2024, reflecting our commitment to high quality teaching, student support and graduate outcomes, evidencing our commitment to high quality teaching.

The Department is housed across three buildings with multiple laboratories for teaching and research across biological sciences, biochemistry and chemistry. It has seen significant investment in both teaching and research facilities in recent years; including the new £16m Life Science building which hosts three-stories of state-of-the-art research and teaching facilities. All our facilities are supported by a dedicated and expert team of technical staff.

The Department is fully committed to the promotion of equality, diversity and inclusion. Applications from women and under-represented minority groups are particularly welcomed.

About the Role

This is an exciting opportunity for a Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Chemistry to join the Faculty of Arts & Sciences in this new position to prepare the University for the launch of a BSc (Hons)/ MChem (Hons) Chemistry programmes which are scheduled to run from October 2025. With significant new investment in facilities for STEM subjects at EHU in recent years, including a £16 million Life Science building, along with the establishment of Chemistry as a discipline for both teaching and research, this is an exciting time to join Edge Hill.

As Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Chemistry, you will be required to make a significant contribution to the writing and delivery of our new BSc (Hons) and MChem (Hons) Chemistry programmes. You will also contribute to the delivery of other areas of our core curriculum depending on your areas of expertise and experience (e.g. Biochemistry, Environmental Chemistry, Biomedical Engineering).

You will be expected to contribute to the research profile of the University through the activities of one of our Research Units, and to meet the qualitative and quantitative requirements for submission to the next Research Excellence Framework. You will also have a role in developing new chemistry facilities. Applicants who can contribute to the Knowledge Exchange Framework through industry relevant research and innovation are also encouraged. We welcome applicants who can evidence work in research and innovation themes that offer collaboration possibilities with existing research units across and beyond the Faculty.

The Faculty of Arts & Sciences has an active research community involving academic staff, post-doctoral researchers, funded PhD students and national and international research projects. You explore it further at <https://research.edgehill.ac.uk/>. The Department of Biology, in which this post will initially be located, also has close links with industry.

About You

You will be an enthusiastic and friendly professional with excellent communication and interpersonal skills coupled with a commitment to providing an excellent student experience. A background in Chemistry with supporting qualifications is essential along with an established or promising research profile in Chemistry and teaching experience on relevant undergraduate programmes. We welcome applicants from any area of Chemistry, but we are particularly interested in individuals who would contribute to both our new Chemistry degrees (BSc, MChem) but also existing course content on our Biochemistry degree and/or further develop research and teaching links with the Faculty of Health, Social Care and Medicine or other research areas within the Faculty. Candidates with experience in developing or with existing industry networks, which can be utilised to enrich the curriculum and embed an employability agenda, are encouraged to apply.

To be successful you will further enrich our student's experience through your expertise and subject knowledge as evidenced through your qualifications and extensive experience of professional practice. In return, you will join a forward thinking and dynamic team that pushes the boundaries of curriculum development within Chemistry.

Reward & Benefits

We want you to feel happy when you come to work and proud when you go home.

From the moment you join us you have the opportunity to enhance your skills. We offer various routes for progression, a range of specialist development sessions and academic development opportunities along with an award winning and comprehensive staff health & wellbeing programme (HR Excellence Awards 2017). This means you will receive a full academic induction, be enrolled if appropriate on our PGCTHE, benefit from the Edge Hill University CPD scheme (UKPSF) and our annual University Learning and Teaching Day all to support your professional development. You may also benefit from joining one of our free evening foreign language classes.

This is just a taste of what we are able to offer you at Edge Hill University.

About Us

Edge Hill University is an ambitious institution, based on an attractive, award-winning 160-acre campus in Lancashire, close to Liverpool and Manchester. The University aspires to combine excellent research of reach and significance with a world-class student experience.

Edge Hill University was named Modern University of the Year in the Times and Sunday Times Good University Guide 2022 and shortlisted for the overall UK University of the Year award. With this award the University was called 'one of the shining stars of the modern university sector.' The award has come closely after Edge Hill was awarded University of the Year in the Educate North Awards 2020/21.

Edge Hill University appears in the Times Higher Global Rankings (801-1000) and has previously held the coveted UK University of the Year title, awarded by Times Higher Education in 2014/2015.

Other recent successes include a Global Teaching Excellence Spotlight Award (2018) from Advance HE in association with Times Higher Education, being ranked in the top 10 for teaching by the Times/Sunday Times Good University Guide 2017, top in the North West for student experience (Time Higher Education 2017), and top in the UK for student accommodation in the 2017 WhatUni Awards.

Edge Hill University has achieved both Athena Swan Bronze and the European Commission's 'HR Excellence in Research Award' (first awarded 2018 and reawarded 2021), which acknowledges alignment with the principles of the European Charter for Researchers and Code of Conduct for researcher recruitment. The process incorporates both the QAA Code of Practice for Research Degree Programmes and the Concordat to Support the Career Development of Researchers.

Job Description for Lecturer (Grade 8)

Duties and Responsibilities

As a Lecturer you will be expected to carry out the following as and when required:

Teaching, Learning & Scholarship

1. Contribute to the curriculum development of the Subject/Department academic programmes and wider Faculty where appropriate, producing high quality, innovative teaching and learning material, informed by research and professional practice (where appropriate) to support and develop student learning, engagement and application in practice (where appropriate) at undergraduate and post graduate level;
